

Please do not dilute the current do-not-call list. My parents are retired and have spent years working towards this peaceful time in their lives. It is extremely upsetting to my mother, particularly, to be barraged with calls throughout the day, interrupting their meals, and their lives. The outside world is there if they want it, please allow them this brief respite.